Nelson
17 Sept 2020

During my last holiday abroad I took a risk and ate everything that I liked. Everything was going well but then I ordered a very spicy dish. Local people told me I'd get sick from it – of course, I did. I had a fever and stomach problems. Within three days I lost 6 kilos – I was really worried, it was horrible. Now – healthy again – looking back I'm happy I took the risk – it was the most delicious meal I'd ever tasted.

You have decided to comment on this blog post. In your comment you should:

- comment on whether you think the risk Nelson took was worth taking
- describe an experience where you took a risk
- argue whether there are situations where nobody should take risks
